

Dear Veteran,

Thank you for fighting in the war and for keeping our country safe. I am very sorry if you did not come back and if your friends did not come back too. My class is making a wreath to remember you. My class is singing a song called, “It’s A Wonderful World.” My class watched a clip it was called, “A Poppy is to Remember.”

Was it scary to fight in the war with guns and with bombs? Did you know the first war was called the Great War? Many young men went off to fight, and many did not return home to their families. But still, in the muddy fields where they fought, wild poppies sprang

The background of the entire page is a faded, grayscale image of a cemetery. Numerous wooden crosses of various shapes and sizes are visible, some with poppies attached to them. The crosses are set in a grassy field. The text is overlaid on this background.

up glowing brightly. An army doctor, weary from tending the wounded, wrote a poem about the war, and about those poppies. His poem was read far and wide. When the war finally ended, on November 11th 1918 people everywhere celebrated the return to peace.

Please wear a poppy to remember who fought in the war and for bringing peace to our country.

Yours Truly,

Issac