

NEVER FORGET

Dear Veteran,

Thank you for fighting in wars for our country. On Thursday we had an assemebly in the gym. I understand how hard it must be to in war. We sang a song called, “What A Wonderful World,” by Louis Armstrong. Thank you for our peace. Thank you for fighting in wars. How was it fighting in war?. It must be scary fighting in wars with heavy guns and tanks.

Thank you for fighting and keeping our country safe. We watched a clip called, “A Poppy is to Remember,” which showed how scary it must be to fight in war. Soldiers can’t see their families and it must be hard for their families if they are killed in war. It must be hard for their children who must cry because they can’t see their fathers. Soldiers are heroes because you are keeping other families safe. Soldiers are very important these days. Wouldn’t it be nice if there was no war? It must be hard for you to get through those days when you are fighting.

NEVER FORGET

Have you heard about a song called, “It’s a Pittance of Time, “ by Terry Kelly. It must be hard for you to watch soldiers in the video that have passed away.

We have a teacher in the school that has a grandfather that has been in war and got shot through the eye. He did not die.

It is important to learn about Remembrance Day at school, but it is also very sad to hear that a lot of soldiers have died in battle. John McCrae wrote a poem called, “In Flanders Fields,” after his friend died in the war. When he wrote the poem he saw poppies blooming in the fields between the crosses row on row.

Thank you for fighting and keeping our country safe.

Yours Truly,

Jacob
